KENNEDY THE WINNER

Of His Fight With Jack Bennett in Two Rounds-A Peculiar Accident Gave Kennedy an Easy Victory, When It Looked Very Much Like Bennett.

By a peculiar ring accident in the second round of his fight with Jack Bennett last night, before eight hundred sports who had assembled at the M. A. C, arena, Eddie Kennedy snatched the laurel wreath of victory at a moment when it looked very much as though Bennett was going to lay it all over Eddle. In the first round, Bennett had shown remarkable eleverness, his ducking away from the hard-hitting Kennedy's advances eliciting the applause of the spectators frequently, while in the mix-ups that characterized the round Bennett's blows were fully as effective as Kennedy's, and at the close it was the general verdict that Kennedy had got decidedly the worst of it. The second round started very much like the first, Bennett's cleverness being decidedly in evidence. Jack was having not the least difficulty in standing Eddle off, and was assuming the offensive. He had rushed Kennedy to the ropes, rie nad rushed Kennedy to the ropes, and they were in a semi-clinch, when Kennedy, in desperation, violently pushed Bennett from him. It was a swing rather than a push, and Bennett swung around as though on a pivot and swing around as though on a pivot and swing around as though on a pivot and swing round as though on a pivot and swing around as though on a pivot are swing around as the swing around a swing a ent to the floor, striking on his head with great force. Jack made a game effort to get up while Referee "Patsy" Gavin was counting out the fateful ten, and half arose, and put his hand to his head, but he was badly dazed, and rolled back and reclined at full length, a look of anguish in his face. Kenne-dy stood calmly awaiting the result of Bennett's futile struggle with self, and as Jack finally rolled over and was counted out he threw his arms up and danced from the center of the ring to the side, relief and surprise and gladness all alike plainly written upon his In an instant cries of "Foul" arose from all parts of the house, and half a minute later the ring was filled with a hundred sports, all crying out their approval or disapproval, of the referee's decision. Men shoved each other about in the ring, and excitement reigned supreme, and for a time it looked as though there would be a general scrap, but trouble was averted, and soon the erowd dispersed.

The first event on the programme was the ten-round preliminary between Oille Adams, of Bellaire, and Buzz Auber, of Wheeling, which went the limit, and was declared a draw. Auber probably landed nore frequently than his opponent, but when Adams did get in one of his wild swings it counted, and both youngsters were badly winded at the finish.

The main event was put on at 11 o'clock. Kennedy was the first to make his appearance, accompanied by his manager, Jimmy Mason, Jim Scanlon, Frank Sutton and Billy Wilson. Kennedy chose his old corner, from which nearly every victory at the M. A. C. has been won. Bennett and his par-ty arrived ten minutes later, and were given a rousing reception. Accompanying Bennett were Billy Corcoran and others.

Referee Gavin introduced Mike Donovan, who challenged the winner: Bobby Dobbs, the well known colored fight-er, next entered the ring with a similar challenge; telegrams were read from Mysterious Billy Smith and Young Peter Jackson, challenging the winner, and last came Frank Collyer, lately defeated by Kennedy, with his little challenge, For Kennedy, Mason announced that in the event of his man winning he would take on the men in the order of the reception of their challenges.

The fight by rounds: Round 1. Kennedy tries with short Bennett swings left around the neck shortly after. and lands lightly on the shoulder and ducks away from Kennedy's left. Ben-nett chops left and swings with right, falling to the floor on his knees from the effort. Gong rings with Bennett in this position.

The Gardner Fights.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.-At the Penn Art Athletic Club to-night, Tim Callahan, of this city, and Oscar Gardner, the Omaha Kid, fought six very hard and scientific rounds. At the dis-ish Callahan had slightly the better of the bout.

In the semi-wind-up Harry Burke and Eddle Gardner, a brother of the Kid, fought six of the hottest rounds ever witnessed in this city, in which Burke seemed to have the advantage.

Stopped by Darkness.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Boston and New York played a tie game to-day, the game being called at the end of the seventh inning on account of darkness. Heavy batting and poor fielding marked the work of both teams. Davis was put out of the game in the second for kicking, Mercer taking his place. Boston tried a new man behind the bat, Connor, of Bridgeport. He did not make a very good impression, making two wild throws and having two passed balls. Attendance, 1,500. Score:
